

1. The selection of articles for summary, and the preparation of the summaries, is the responsibility of the editor, who will consult with the Board as necessary.
2. The journals which will be reviewed regularly are as follows:

Alternative Law Journal

Australian Bar Review

Australian Business Law Review

Australian Law Journal

Cambridge Law Journal

Criminal Law Journal (Australian)

Journal of Law and Medicine

Law Institute Journal

Law Quarterly Review

Melbourne University Law Review

Modern Law Review

Monash University Law Review

Oxford Journal of Legal Studies

Victorian Parliamentary Library Service – Research Papers

The editor and the Board will keep this list under review and amend it as required.

3. To be eligible for selection, an article should have been published not more than two years earlier.
4. The editor will select articles relevant to Victorian law which are likely to be useful to judicial officers in decision-making and to practitioners in giving advice and preparing submissions.
5. Preference will be shown for articles which –
 - a. elucidate legal doctrine, whether common law or statutory;
 - b. are written in a form and style which is accessible to a non-academic audience.
6. Articles may also be selected which have a theoretical or empirical focus, even if not of immediate doctrinal application.
7. Selection of articles will seek to ensure coverage of a wide range of legal topics, and diversity of authorship and perspectives.
